

Session 5 – Interactive session: Importance and Approach of RIA in EU Harmonization

In this interactive session, participants will work in smaller groups with the aim of identifying the importance of RIA and approach in implementation of the EU regulation presented in the case study.

The case study is based on the rules on organization of the market for drinking milk in Hungary in the context of EU harmonization.

Tasks:

1. Read the whole case study worksheet individually to familiarize yourself with the issue and prepare for the group assignment (5 mins)
2. Work on the exercise below in your group (60 mins)
3. Present your results to the wider group and participate in discussions (5 mins)

Exercise:

Based on the case study material participants are asked to discuss and prepare material in relation to the following questions and issues:

1. Why is RIA important for this case study?
2. What are the possible options of implementing the regulation?
3. What are the likely impacts (costs and benefits) of each option, including 'doing nothing' option?
